The Society of St. John Chrysostom, Eastern Churches Journal, Eastern Christian Publications, and the Orientale Lumen Foundation announce a popular and scholarly conference for lay men, lay women, religious and clergy entitled Orientale Lumen XXI. The theme for this year’s conference will be “Chieti and Crete: Two Historical Events.” Speakers will discuss the importance of the Orthodox-Catholic agreed statement in Chieti, Italy on papal primacy during the first millennium, and the Great and Holy Council of the Orthodox Church held on Crete -- both occurring in 2016.

June 19-22, 2017 at the Washington Retreat House, Washington, DC

Open to the public, but requiring pre-registration, the conference will provide an opportunity for Roman Catholics, Eastern Orthodox, Eastern Catholics and Oriental Orthodox to gather, discuss and learn about their respective traditions. It will include presentations by scholars and theologians, liturgical celebrations of many varieties, and opportunities for everyone to learn from each other and participate in a “dialogue of love and understanding.”
